Examination System

Chhatna Chandidas Mahavidyalaya which is affiliated to Bankura University follows a semester based Learning- cum- examination system under NEP (CBCS for older batches) with both theory and practical examination. End semester Examinations (Odd or Even Semester) generally comprise of 50 marks; 40 marks for external examination while internal assessment constitutes 10 marks (40+10). If any subject has practical examination it follows such pattern as 30(external) + 10 (internal) + 10 (practical). To sit for the end semester examination a student at first has to fulfill 75% class attendance; then he has to go through both enrolment and examination form fill up procedure as per university guidelines. The university notifies the students about the Examination routine of theory and practical examination (for regular and SNC candidates), question type and details of the Examination centre. Regular updates for UG exams are announced via the department of the Office of the Controller of examinations. Question pattern in examination includes descriptive, short answer type questions and MCQ for AEC courses, with practical examination held at the home centre. After the completion of the evaluation, the results are published as grade sheet with SGPA/CGPA.
